In this issue Leyla's familiar words of wisdom continue to enlighten us. The spiritual writings all around the world have ignored the opinions of animals almost completely. We are filling this huge void in our own peculiar way by doing this e-magazine. Who would have thought, that you can interview animals, and even listen to them?!

Well, actually animal communication is a very normal thing to do, on a daily basis for many, many people and to some others it is nothing but a joke. Here we have a freedom of choice as well.

You have to remember, that we all walk our individual paths in our own pace. We open up to different things exactly at the moment, when we are ready for them, right from the bottom of our heart. Quite often you are ready, when the questions start to arise from the depths of Your Self. That is the way many people end up to consult an animal communicator: their hearts are filled with huge questions and they seek answers to them.

We have more readers coming our way, and we have had great feedback. We trust that the words of animals, which we write down here, spread exactly where they are meant to spread: to the hearts of every reader, bringing them joy, light and comfort, too.

Our guest is a talented animal communicator from The Netherlands: Linda Roosloot. See the links in the end of this issue, if you want to read more about her!

Maiccu starts with the goldeneye. This interview is a great heart opener, and you can feel its energy in your whole body, if you open yourself to this huge message from a little bird.

Maiccu's words

As I write this, I know that there really is a totally new chapter about to begin in my life. It's like the universe has placed a map in front of me and told me to have a nice trip! As this new year began I felt like a burden was lifted from my shoulders. It was a relief to leave 2009 behind me, it was a rough year, I let go of it and it felt like it was time to start anew with a clean table.

Soon unbelievable things started to appear on that empty table, the dreams seemed to come true just like that. The year 2010 is the year of many miracles; the first few weeks have proved that to me. My life will obviously change in many ways during the next months. I can only say to all of you, from the bottom of my heart: Believe in your dreams, listen to your heart, everything is possible. I will tell you more about the things that have taken place later. I am anxious to see what the next issue of PSW (5) brings. The theme will be the law of attraction then. Leyla is going to answer to some LOA questions and tells her own thoughts about this powerful law.

Things have happened like in a dream with The Power of Silent Wisdom. All the themes we have discussed in these first issues have been following my own life situations. In this issue we talk about trust and it is also very important thing to have in your heart. It will be really fascinating to see what these precious animals of ours think about all these things, both those who live with us and those who live in the wild. The next guest is the goldeneye. She was unable to migrate to south with the others and one day it appeared in the front yard of my good friend. The heart of goldeneye was full of trust, even though she was quite afraid because of the strange situation she was in.

So, let those dreams of yours fly with their wings this year and join me with my adventures with Leyla and the common goldeneye. We have plenty of material for you, as long as there are animals in this world!

Goldeneye wisdom!

Goldeneye in January 2010

Hello, I have waited for a while to share my thoughts with you. I was told before that someone will contact me. I did not understand what it meant first, but I was trustful. I was also told that we are going to talk about trust (Maiccu told her) and I am ready to tell you what it means to me.

I am just a simple bird, but I have a strange story to tell you. How I ended up here, in the spotlight in front of you all; it must have some deeper meaning. The universe, and the world we are living in, makes no mistakes. I have been studying the terms of humans and the ways they think for few weeks now, and I think it is quite interesting. I would like to say a few words about it, if you do not mind.

(Maiccu: Of course, you can say whatever you wish to say.)

This is my very own opinion, no more, no less. I think that you people think in a very complicated way. You, Maiccu, have thought about this interview a lot and you have made it much too complicated. I am just a simple bird, I have ordinary thoughts, like anybody, and some of you might be interested in them, some of you are not. There is no need to cling to it. I let my thoughts flow to you and you translate them for other people to read. When are you going to learn to trust yourself, and you stop thinking about things beforehand too much? Here you see once again, that things were not as you thought they were. Don't you think it would be good to just trust the moment and the time you are in now and make the best out of it then and there, without thinking about it too much beforehand? It is very good to bring this up now, because your theme is trust. This is a great lesson for you. This interview is probably different than you thought it would be and that is the greatest lesson of it. Why think so much about things, since they are going to be different than you thought anyway, in the end the result is always perfect.

I say this to you, people, this is the true essence of trust. Be in this moment and believe that you have everything you ever need right here. When you have learned to be in this perfect now moment, without any extra thoughts or worries about the future, you will notice and learn, that things are now and always working in the best possible way. Always! I tell you about my own personal experience of trust and before I continue to enjoy my life here, in my wonderful nest in the cellar of these wonderful people, I can tell you also about what I would like to eat and about other practical issues.

I am just a simple bird. I have ordinary thoughts, like anybody, and some of you are interested in them, some of you are not. There is no need to cling to it.

My story could be like a story of any human being as well. Once again, do not think of us as something different, or so special, all this could have happened to any human just as it happened to me, a bird. I was born very late in the summer, there was not much time left before it was time to go to the south. My Mom noticed soon that I can't fly and it was obvious that I had no time to learn. The others had to leave. What happened next changed everything.

This could have happened to any of you, right? I was not adult, but not a child anymore. (We birds grow up a little faster than you human beings, I guess you know that.) My mother gathered us children together and told us all, that because I could not fly, I would not join them. She said that I would have to leave the lake, to go a little further to a place where I think that I could survive. The most important thing she said was to follow my heart and trust that all is going to be in the best possible way and that I will make it and that we will meet again in the summer.

The others left and I was pretty sad to see them go, but I decided that I will see my mother again next summer and all the things that will happen to me from now on will be good. I do not know when the summer comes, the concept of time is a bit strange to me, but I know that when the snow is melting the summer is almost here. I walked for quite a long time and I thought that there must be somebody somewhere who can help me. I did not have a clue where I was going, but I was listening to the voice of my heart. Then one day I came to this yard and I saw the light in the window. My heart told me that those people do not look very dangerous and my heart told me to wait until the morning comes. And I was too tired to continue further anyway.

The next day the people of this house found me from the yard and they took me inside. I got my own nest and I got some food. Something in me knew that I had listened to my heart very well; and I had trusted all this time that nothing bad is going to happen to me. In my life so far, this has been the most important thing that has ever happened to me, and I can't wait to tell that to the others! And that not all the people are bad. Also when it comes to people you just have to listen to your heart. I trusted something that was much, much bigger than I was, and I mean with this the whole situation.

(A note from Maiccu: How many people would have been devastated faced with the same situation? How many of us would be able to jump into the unknown and just trust the situation, no matter what it was?)

This winter I am determined to learn to fly, so that I know how to do it next summer. I have a good teacher, human being, who is teaching me. I am not going to give up and I would never tell anyone else to give up. I trust in myself, and I trust that I will learn. Trust in yourselves, that is the most important thing in trust. Nobody else can trust that you trust in yourself, do you understand?

Maiccu: What if you do not learn to fly?

That is something I cannot know and I do not think about it. Have you learned anything yet during the these moments? I do not think that what if I do not learn to fly, and I am definitely not going to worry about it. That thought would be destructive and I would give up right away. If I do not learn to fly, and that is quite possible, so then what? It's not worth to even think about it now. Let's think about that at the moment the summer comes. When the summer comes I hope I can go back to the lake to see when the others come home, I want to be there with them, no matter if I fly or not. I can swim anyway and what happens after that, I do not know, and neither do you and it is not worth to think about it. Everything has a meaning attached to it, and I know that when the time comes to leave I will miss this nest of mine these wonderful people made for me.

I don't know that much about the life of migratory birds yet, but I will learn more when the time comes. We live according to our instincts which are based on hundreds and thousands of years and we listen to the spirits of air. We can read the seasons and the time in our own way. We birds navigate in the web of love, it's like a big worldwide map, in a way it is like the maps of humans, my Mom told me that when they were leaving. She said that we learn on the way all we need to know and that the trip is rough, also important, it is like a short life. My life had a different meaning, at least I got a chance to teach you something and maybe you have also learned something. I wish you will remember, that the greater the struggle, the greater the trust and you have nothing to worry about. We all are so much loved, and I know that I am loved. Don't you think, that when a total stranger helps someone who is smaller and weaker than she is, that it is a great proof of great love... How could I describe it to you any better? Well, I don't have to, just love each other and trust yourselves, that is a lot said with only a few words. Love and trust. My Mother loved me and trusted me and you just have to trust in your own children and they will be safe.

You asked me what I would like to eat?

I get plenty of food and I am grateful for that. What I would eat in the nature is out there, in the bottom of the lake and you cannot get that for me. (The hundreds of thousands of Finnish lakes are frozen right now!) I have tasted a little bit of fish when I was small, from my mother's mouth, the fish would be good.

(Maiccu's note: You can buy fish, for example herrings, and grind them for example with blender and make little fish balls, without flour or anything... Maybe you could try some shrimps?!)

I have been given bread, and it is good, but I have never eaten that in the nature. All in all my situation is very good, I wait that the snow melts and there we are and we see what happens next. I live in this moment, but I wait for the things in the future, it is a bit different than with you humans. You live in the past and you worry about the future. I enjoy my life, you enjoy yours, and wait with enthusiasm for the future and be grateful for this moment and have some trust!

Maiccu's note: I read about the goldeneye at Wikipedia and they talk about the food they eat a lot, there might be good tips. As I was writing this I saw very clearly that the goldeneye's Mom gave her food from her mouth. At Wikipedia.com they say that goldeneyes do not feed their babies. Whatever the case, maybe this time Mom actually did feed her chick?

Thank you, little duck, these were great words about life, once again. Very touching indeed and anybody can easily relate to these experiences of this goldeneye.

Let's trust that her wings will carry her!

16.1.2010
Maiccu

PS The little goldeneye was found dead in the morning of 18.1.2010 in her very own nest, in the cellar where she was living. She probably died happy in her warm nest, and she did not freeze to death in the snow. That is a good thing.

This bird, ordinary bird, gave a huge lesson to us humans. She did not want to complain, she did not want our pity, her soul was hungry for joy, in this moment and that was all. Brave little bird walked a long way to share her words with us and to tell us more about The Web of Love. She may not have known when her journey started, that she will contribute to this issue, but The Universe knew. Nothing is meaningless in life.

The short life of this goldeneye showed as a great lesson about trust. Next time, when you are running out of trust, remember how the bird said to Maiccu: Have you learned anything yet?

Leyla's Legacy: Trust

"My dear, let's talk about trust. That's the next theme I wanted to talk about with you.

Do you trust yourself? Do you trust me? Do you trust The Universe? Do you trust that everything happens exactly as it was meant to happen? Do you trust that you do have the solution to every situation in your life? What does it mean, when we talk about trust? At the same time we often talk about faith. Trust and faith in this case have nothing to do with religion. You humans often mix up these two things.

Well, I almost started to explain what is the difference between faith and religion...

(Maiccu's note: I deleted a couple of rows from the text.) ...but now you all are thinking, what I would have said about religion. So I say something briefly. People do not have only one religion, they have plenty of them. Some of them also have an effect in the living conditions of animals, and life in general. Animals do not have an opinion about religion, not against it or for, and that includes me. Religion is something humans created for themselves, to suit certain life situations. Religion can be combinations of different things that humans want to believe in and to trust.

However, religion is always something outside person, and it is maintained or ruled by a group of people; people others than you. I won't talk about religion anymore. You do understand the difference between trust and religious faith. Things are a bit different for those who are not able to separate these two and they think that religion is exactly the same thing than trust.

I hope I haven't confused you for good.

We aim to talk about trust here. We could start by telling a true story, a story about how Maiccu learned to understand what trusting is. I myself taught it to her in the most beautiful way. This is the story of how I left my earthly body.

Now many of you wonder why I always go back to the moment when I left Earth and came here, to the other side. There is a very good reason for this. When I tell you, all the readers of these messages, different things and so called 'teachings', I also teach Maiccu at the same time. She is my student and my closest person. Furthermore, she gets all this information straight from me. She will spread these messages also in other forms, not just in written form. As she writes these things down she learns and perceives better and this way she is able to teach others again and again. I want to tell you this so that you would also understand better. Every word is meant for all of you.

Simply, it all started the moment when I left. That was the first step; the first lesson; the first lesson of trust. Our mutual journey ended in one form and started in another form. It all began at that autumnal night. That is the reason why we have talked about letting go, so that we are able to start from the beginning; from trust.

It was my time to leave the earth. That was part of the bigger picture; just like your life is part of the bigger picture. That does not mean that you don't have any influence over your own life during every moment of it. Or that you were not able to decide the direction of your life or to be in control for your own business. You all have a free will and you do change the direction of your life all the time, the plan just always changes: if you are ready for the change.

When I left, I knew it was a perfect moment and that I was ready. All my persons were ready. Maiccu was actually aware of many things around that time, and she always tells this story to people who she is teaching. Nonetheless, I want to tell all this to you with my own words, so that you could see why it is involved with the theme trust.

That night Maiccu got many calls from different people who wanted to help her, and they really did help. I had so many angels and protective energy around me that I was not afraid at all. I was feeling really good, even though it may have not seemed like it.

Later some of those people said to Maiccu that things happened as they did because she did not trust enough for my healing to take place, or that she did not believe in the healing power of God and things like that. I want all of you to learn this. If something happens, and it was really meant to happen, not even God can change it, if this thing is happening for the greater good. Do you understand what I am trying to say here?

There is nothing greater or more divine or more beautiful than the moment when you make your transition to the other side, back to place you once left behind. No faith in something outside you would have made a difference. Not Maiccu's faith, or the faith of somebody else's. Nothing could have changed the direction or stop things from happening.

Here lies the basis of trust. Do you trust, that whatever happens in your life, it is always for the greatest good and meant for you and perfectly right. Maiccu understood this, but it did not happen immediately, it took time until she started to see the bigger picture. Eventually she felt that everything was alright.

It's still not easy for her. I am here and I can see how difficult it is for her to write about it. But I help and we know that this is our mutual path and our mission. To help others to understand what trust is all about. Just as well as all the other themes that we have talked about.

So I ask you one more time. Next time, when something seemingly catastrophic happens in your life, do you believe, that it is the best thing for you to happen at that moment, and that it is actually the greatest gift given to you? All is well, you have to trust in that. When life is throwing you to this way and that way, trust that it is always taking you ahead on your journey.

We talked about the change already and about the fact that it is constant. Trust that the sun will shine after the rain. You can't control time, but if you keep on trusting life and you give the universe a chance to help and guide you, all will be fine. You people just do not trust yourselves, and it is a big problem.

You always blame outsiders. I asked you in the beginning, that do you believe that you have the key to every situation, to every question that you ever ask. All the answers are inside you. Yes, even you, whose life seems to have stopped altogether.

It's easier for us animals to have trust. We trust that our human comes back to us, feeds us, takes us outside, caresses us, and so on. Our life is simple, because we want it to be. Our thoughts, deeds and all that happens to us, is very simple. We do not worry what to eat next week. We do not worry about the bills or something else. But sometimes we do worry about you. We hear your worries, you walk this and that way, worrying about money, food, cleaning, marriage, children etc. If you could hear half of your own thoughts, you might see it for yourself, that there is actually nothing in your life that you really trust.

What would it feel like, to do as Taapi said (the cat in PSW 1) and just sit in a cardboard box for a one day and think about your life. What does it use to worry about tomorrow, when there is enough to think about this day, now?

For once, look into your heart. What does it say, what does it feel?

---

If you learned to trust the flow of life and the universe, even for a tiny little bit of it, your life would be so much easier. Your trust is put to test with difficult things, your life is like a continuous trial. As soon as you start to show some trust in yourself and your life, it all gets better immediately.

This is often way too easy for humans. The answers are too close, it is way too simple. If something is "too easy", you usually do not believe that it can be true. So you make it complicated again. You live in a vicious circle of your own mind.

Oh, how much you are loved, and how much help there is available to you, from every direction. Why don't you just stop fighting against it and stop looking for the answers outside yourself.

For once, look into your heart. What does it say, what does it feel? No matter how much you try to rationalize your life, if you have no trust in your inner voice, the voice that comes from your heart, you are fighting against trust.

I promise you, if you trust that all is well - even in a difficult situation, when everything seems to fall apart around you and everything loses its meaning to you – you are safe. Then you have realized a lot about life, so much, that when the next storm comes, it does not feel so bad at all.

You can question the things that happen in your life, you can also question your own actions. You can blame yourself or others for the things that take place in your life, but that makes no difference. You just feel sad inside and stop living. Turn all these things, woes and sorrows to trust and you will see how things become easier. Difficult things just sail by, and they do not hit you so hard. You will stand tall much longer than before. Time and time again it gets easier, until you learn to deal with all your emotions.

I can see that Maiccu is pondering about one thing here, about how to explain the word trust itself, what is it? I have tried to explain what the trust brings with it, but what does that word really mean, how to explain it shortly, so that you would understand.

Trust means, that you learn to control your own thoughts. It means that you are able to let go of agonizing, sorrowful, worrying thoughts. Trust is a physical state, a state where you feel good and light, as if a burden has been lifted from your shoulders. Life looks good. You trust, when you learn to let go of all the negative thinking and learn to think about something beautiful and nice instead.

I hope that I have helped you to trust yourselves and your life. That is the beginning of everything. When you learn to do that, you can start to learn to trust other people and your animals. That is a whole new teaching and we are not that far yet.

Before you can learn to trust things that are outside you, you have to learn to trust yourself. Everything is there, the whole universe. You think that things are much more complicated than that, but they are not. Everything is very simple, just love.

I love you all very much and I love my own people. I trust that our work will do what it is meant to do: lots of good!

I'd like to add something before I stop.

Trust is a physical state, a state where you feel good and light, as if a burden has been lifted from your shoulders.

It is about the goldeneye, the bird who talked about trust from her point of view in this issue.

Two days after the “interview”, she transitioned here, to the other side.

I hope that her words touched your hearts deeply. Her time to leave came right after she told you that she would learn to fly and that she waited for the summer and the moment when she would meet her family again. Her trust in life was adamant. Absolutely nothing could weaken it.

I emphasize, that she trusted that all shall be well in the end. Yes, my dear, she's here and she can fly. She flies high and beautifully and she is grateful for her life on Earth, even though it was quite short life. She knew that she would learn to fly, that is the way trust is.

Oh dear humans, if you could take a little part of this bird's teaching into your hearts, even if it was only one little feather of wisdom!

Leyla

*Thank you, Leyla, thank you, goldeneye girl.
With love

Meet Linda Roosloot

Linda & Drs. Snuggles

Have you always been as intuitive as you are today?

Yes and No. Let me explain that for you. I grew up in a very spiritual family. All the women from my mother's side of my family are very psychic in different ways. Some of them developed their skills, others didn't want to do that. So at one side it's in my genes, I was born with the potential to develop my intuitive, spiritual or psychic side. My mother has developed her skills in a very natural way and I watched her working with her gifts during my childhood. So it's a normal thing for me that you can feel, see, know, smell or hear things from the 'other side' so to speak. I didn't pay a lot of attention to it because for me it was as normal as any other job. Although I intuitively knew that I couldn't speak about it. Also I watched the 'dark' side as well and I decided that I didn't want to do anything with this kind of spiritual work. No, not for me. So for many years I didn't develop my skills. I kept my head in the sand. So no, I wasn't always that intuitive, I think.

But ...something was going on. I always had a special connection with animals. I assumed that everybody has that, so it wasn't special for me. Another thing was that I always knew things without knowing them or felt things intuitively. But again I thought that everybody has that! Later on in my live it was bothering me big time, especially during my working days in the world of business. I had a big struggle with my inner knowing and feelings and quit my job. That made a major change. I asked to anyone who's living 'above' (I didn't believe in God as we all knew God; now I believe in God as the comprehensive whole dimension): "Please Help me to find my spiritual way, teach me how to make a difference between things I know from myself or things I receive from other energies." It was bothering me a lot and I needed to learn how to turn it off and on and to know what was from me and what was from someone else. So... Yes I was always this intuitive; I only didn't want to recognize it at all.

And then my intensive spiritual journey began. During this rollercoaster journey, it started almost 7 years ago, my reconnection with the Angels started. It's becoming more sensitive and stronger every day. I met a lot of great people who where inspiring me deeply and give my Soul's mission a jumpstart. Or I read some perfect books (who where there, in my book shelf, for many years) like the books by Neale Donald Walsh. All around me there were a lot of Angels' signs and I was creating situations for myself to work with those signs.

I realized very soon that I was a medium and that I had the ability to connect with Animals on many levels as well. This 'Talking with Animals' I learned all by myself but the Angels where teaching me as well, mostly archangel Michael and Raphael were teaching and guiding me in this process. Trust is the main key in this process. Trust in yourself, in the angels, in the animals your working with. Always have, in all situations, in every moment, unconditionally TRUST in LIFE.

But I still have to work on my abilities every day. Your learning curve is never ending. Sometimes I think that I'm doing a reading for the first time or that I 'know' nothing anymore. Now I know that when I had experiences like that I entered a new stage of intuitive development, I', promoted to a new class so to speak and as you well know you will feel like a student again. It's funny because it always in a cycle of 7 years. Right this moment I entered my class of 2010. I just started it and I already feel that it's going to be a very shaky and intensive class this year. But you are never ready with your development because LIFE is your school, so Trust Life, Trust Yourself forever, it's your most important guide.

You do not connect with the animals you communicate with in the same way that many other animal communicators do. You connect with animals with the help of angels. How do you do it, and do you work with one particular angel, or all of them?

Yes, it's true that I communicate in a different way with animals than most of my colleague animal aommunicators do. They are using more the telepathic way of talking and connecting to and with them. That's also one of mine instruments but not the only one. The telepathic way for me is a nice thing to do also. My first connection with my beloved Animal Friends is through the Angel's Energy. We're working in a triangle of loving energies where also healing is taking place. It's a deeper spiritual experience for everyone involved. Therefore I prefer to call myself a Spiritual Animal Communicator or Translator.

I connect with a lot of different Archangels and sometimes with some other angels or guiding energies, too. It depends on whom I'm working for and with and which areas need some healing. Archangel Michael and Raphael are connecting with me strongly, but I noticed recently that some other angel spheres are starting to connect with me. I can't really explain how it works and even others who are working with angels and animals are not working in a similar way than I am. So therefore I'm not (yet) able to teach others how to do that. It's not a 'thing' you learn in just a day. But I admire everyone who is connecting or communicating from Love and Trust with animals; we all have our own unique ways.

Do you think the animals have angel guides, like we humans have?

Yes, absolutely! Angels are working with every single living creature and even when they have crossed over they are work with them. All angels are working on every level in our universe. It's so magnificent! So, yes, animals have guides. too. *(There is an additional message about this question right in the end of this chapter.) **

Was it an easy decision for you to open up to the world and say, that you are an animal communicator? Has the media been nice to you in The Netherlands?

It was an easy decision for me to continue my spiritual journey, although it isn't always easy. It also was an easy decision to follow my inner guidance and listen to my Soul's Mission so it was never an inner conflict for me to work as an Animal Communicator especially as a Spiritual One. The media has found me, I never reached out for them but they reached out for me, so that part was very easy. However, to acknowledged it for yourself and speak out loud and tell people 'Hi I'm Linda and my profession is Animal & Angel Communication' ... Yes that is another story. I told them, but it took a while before I fully felt it in my body & mind (my soul already knew). After my first interview in a famous Dutch National Newspaper all things took a natural course. The Dutch media is very nice to me. It was a Dutch Radio Station 538 who introduced me as the Dutch Dr. Doolittle, so this is my second professional name and I'm proud of it! The media in general, not only the Dutch one, is taking me seriously and all my experiences are wonderful. It doesn't matter if it's an interview for radio or a magazine or a television.

Since children are very open naturally and also often can communicate with animals naturally, don't you think we should spread the word about animal communication among children as well? [Instead of telling them "Don't be daft, it is not possible." (Like we used to do in the old days...)] Many times, children deliberately let their third eye close because of the pressure they experience from their surroundings. Friends or family laugh at them, etc.] Maybe the only way to change the world is to teach the next generation to respect all life?

It's is one of the key's to teach our next generation to respect all life starting with their own live, but not only respecting life it's going beyond that. The first step is respect You as You, the second, respect Me as Me, respect Your Soul and then See who I really am, in the highest version I ever can imagine. But....Very Important: It's a normal process in growing up to close your third eye or even more tools for a while during childhood. We are living on EARTH and it's necessary to establish a earth bounded live first or too. It depends on the ones who are guiding a child in which way the soul is going to develop. Many people are underrating that but it's the most important one and also a task of the person of that Soul. Are you with me? So quid a child with tenderness with LOVE so they Trust You and are able to Trust their own inner feelings and follow their Souls guiding.

To change the world is to change Yourself. To listen to your Soul and follow your Soul's mission. We are all One and connected on so many spiritual levels. I can't change it by myself without You because I am You too.

What kind of animals you have at home? What was the latest "lesson or love lecture" they gave you?

I'm in the presence of two wonderful dogs. My oldest one is now 14 years old, a cotton the tular, full male and living his earth live by the name Djanco from Angels Station (My first hint Go work with the Angels Linda!). He's the one who brought me to my communication skills with Animals although I didn't noticed that at that moment. I had a special connection with him from the first moment I saw him when he was 3 weeks old. He protects me and is always there for me. He's the stability in my live.

My second dog is Drs. Snuggles, a Dutch hunting dog who never has hunted his whole live. A great dog, who's teaching me to have trust and peace. Born on Christmas eve (what are the Angels telling me?) and he has walked on Earth with us now for 8 years. He has a special connection with my son. From the moment I was pregnant Snuggles was guiding and protecting me and my 'belly'. During my pregnancy naps he always crawled on me so he was as close as possible with my son. Those two share LOVE on many levels. My son is able to do everything with him and he is not bothered at all.

Note: I'm also a kynologic behavior therapist and I never will tell you that a dog is 'child-proof'! So never leave a dog and a child alone without supervision. With this knowledge I kept my eye on both of them and I was amazed to see my lesson in their connection. Thank You, Snuggles for that.

And I'm surrounded by many, many, birds who are living or eating in my garden. Even one squirrel is connecting with me. The other day I had the most beautiful encounter with a Robin. I've seen him every day when I'm writing behind my desk. He's sitting in a tree, always the same, and eating and cleaning himself. He often makes eye contact with me. I send him my love and make a heart link with him. But this morning it was different. I was preparing food outside for all the birds and this Robin was hopping towards me, looking at me and connecting with me, it was the other way around. He thanked me for the wonderful food so that he could stay alive. He shared his love with me, I felt it. It was so simple and yet so touching, inspiring and I felt humble. I've had a similar encounter with a rabbit and a squirrel during these past few weeks. (You can read about it on my blog soon and later this year in my first book.)

So what I want to share is this: When you meet an Animal, doesn't matter which one, connect from your heart with love, send your love in an energetic way. And Yes You Can! Think about a loved one and you send them energetic love, it's the same way. Then take a moment to observe the animal and respect them, honor them. They'll notice if it's from your heart or not and they will send you something back. Let that feeling come to you in your heart and pay attention to what that feeling is telling or teaching you. It is LOVE.

To Lea and Maiccu,

I thank you for the reconnection with you both and that you gave me the opportunity for this wonderful interview. I admire and appreciate both your work and Loving Energy you give to the world of Animal Communication in particularly.

Namaste

**Here's the additional message to the question about animals and guardian angels:*

Not all of the animals have guardian angels; not even every human has those special guardians. Not everyone is surrounded by guides or guardian angels.

However, every living creature on earth receives help from the Angelic realms in every way they need and in every moment when it is necessary. They work with our environment; earth, oceans, wildlife, animals, humans... The whole Universe.

But there is a difference. Animals are mostly angels on earth for their caregivers. They have a special role in a spiritual way. When animals are sick or crossing over they get help from angels, just like us. When an animal is living in your home and is highly sensitive or you feel some kind of a deeper connection with it, there is always a mutual shared lives theme. I've learned that as an animal communicator and as a translator; it is something that comes from a place of simply knowing without knowing. It's also one of my tasks to work with animals and caregivers with that special theme in mind also.

Animals are angels on Earth.

Animals have a task on earth, and when they can complete their task they are happy and content. And that's their angelic work for us humans. But they need energetic help from us light workers, healers and energy workers to help them let go of the energies they have absorbed.

Sometimes you meet a very special animal friend, you feel it and you know in your mind that this is possible. It's connection on a soul level and you immediately know there's more between you and that animal. It isn't always an animal who's living in your home. When you experience something like that sort of a soul connection and this animal is not a part of your inner earth family, then stay in that moment! Stop, let go of your thoughts and just watch that animal. Feel with your heart what the lesson or message is for you in that special moment. An experience like that is coming more often to you when you accept this on soul level and in your mind know that it is possible. No, you are not going mad, it's a special spiritual roadmap just for you, in that moment.

Enjoy it...It's an Animal Angel.

Maiccu is going to Los Angeles in February. She has VIP-tickets to The Ellen Show and this particular episode is filmed on March 2nd. Ellen DeGeneres is a great animal lover and it is quite exciting to see, if Maiccu has actually a chance to meet her. A meeting with Lisa Williams, the world famous medium, is confirmed; they will talk about animal communication, of course. Both women, Lisa and Ellen, are seen on TV in Finland. (Channel 5 & Liv.)

And there is one thing that we would like to point out here...

Dear Reader, remember, that our main mission is to interpret the words of animals and put them here, for you to read. We are not telling the one and only absolute truth about certain animal or a certain breed or species.

When an animal guest comes to talk with Maiccu, it is primarily a friend who we are listening to. Of course it is possible that we get some useful information about the species in question and we can learn something new. This kind of information, that comes straight from the animal's "mouth", is priceless and we respect it as the way it is when Maiccu receives it.

We are not animal experts or animal scientists, we are ordinary people. Most of all we aim to spread the awareness about animal communication and the web of love. (The Web of Love was first mentioned in PSW 1 by Irma the cat. In this issue the goldeneye mentioned that the birds use it to navigating purposes.)

We apologize our unscientific approach, if it makes you feel uncomfortable: our animal guests do not seem to mind it. The toad didn't mention it, even though we generalized her to frog in our conversations with Maiccu weeks before the actual interview. She did not mind that the scientific human world says that she is "a toad" and we said she is "a frog". It was trivial for her and not worth mentioning... And she actually seemed to do the same generalisation by saying: "We frogs are proud creatures." (PSW 3).

If you would like to ask additional questions from the animals we have interviewed, it is not an impossible idea. Maybe some questions have actually risen in the minds of our readers. Maybe we can even do one issue solely based on these questions, if you readers are interested.

Anyway, in the next issue, PSW 5, our theme is the good old law of attraction and Leyla will answer LOA questions from the readers. It might be a huge issue, you never know what Maiccu brings back with her when she returns to Finland from LA!

Send your LOA questions to Leyla! You are very welcome to do so.

According to the law of attraction, you are the biggest magnet in the universe!
